

Hirling Strategy & Finance is a consulting company for strategy and finance with headquarters in Berlin. We advise companies on improving and developing an appropriate strategy which matches the firm's financial aims, thereby creating long-lasting customer relationships with medium to large sized German, European and large international companies.

To support our team we are offering you a position as

Consultant Financial Services (f/m)

Your Prospects:

At our office in Berlin we are offering you interesting tasks and an innovative dynamic working environment. You have the opportunity to be an active participant in the expansion of our company.

Your Duties and Responsibilities:

- Preparation, creation and processing of innovative total solutions with the combination of strategy and finance.

Additionally you will work in other areas such as acquisition, project development and the development of customer relationships. You will be partly responsible for projects and have the opportunity to move into management tasks.

Your Qualifications:

- Degree in business administration or comparable education with approx. 2 to 3 years working experience
- Major in Finance or knowledge of corporate finance through your previous work experience
- Fluent command of English both spoken and written
- Mobile for national and international project assignments
- Motivation, team spirit and goal-oriented work ethic
- High willingness to learn, people skills and the ability to convince

On your career path we support you - methodically, team oriented and collegial. Interested in the position? Then send us your application with your desired salary and picture (preferably by e-mail) to:
